Dear Esteemed readers,

Following an abrupt standstill in international arrivals due to the COVID-19 health crisis, we are pleased to see that international tourism has experienced signs of rebound during June-July 2021 as some destinations eased travel restrictions and the global vaccination roll-out advanced in many parts of the world is proving to be effective. Millions of jobs and livelihoods of local communities have been put at risk with the unprecedented effects of the pandemic. While Africa may be one of the least affected regions, many of the social-economic gains, gender equality and sustainable development made possible through tourism have been rolled back.

In addition to several initiatives launched to support member states with the recovery of the sector, we continue to monitor closely and assess the impact of the pandemic through the UNWTO Global Tourism Dashboard on Tourism and COVID-19, the Tourism Recovery Tracker which provide member states with comprehensive, reliable and updated information and updated reports on travel restrictions by governments. These reports are all accessible through our websites and serve as key tools to support member states in their recovery plans.

As part of our rural development initiative, UNWTO opened calls for best tourism villages. Here we are aiming to identify the best examples of rural villages that are harnessing the power of tourism to provide opportunity and safeguard their communities, local traditions and heritage. In addition, in preparation of COP 26, UNWTO together with UNEP Environment and other international environmental agencies engaged all stakeholders to tackle the issue of climate change in the tourism sector. The Glasgow Declaration: A urgent Global Call for Commitment to a decade of Climate Action in Tourism aims to cut global tourism emissions by at least a half over the next decade and reach Net Zero emissions as soon as possible before 2050. In this regard, we highly encourage interested signatories in Africa to subscribe to the declaration on Climate Action in Tourism.

In line with the UNWTO Agenda for Africa-Tourism for inclusive Growth, a strategic roadmap to develop tourism in Africa spearheaded by the UNWTO Secretary-General, our activities highlight the importance of sustainable investments through public-private partnerships, and the need to promote Brand Africa, both of which are aimed at supporting tourism recovery and revitalizing the tourism sector with innovative solutions. During May, through Advocating Brand Africa, a range of workshops on African Gastronomy were held, followed by the UNWTO Regional Conference on Strengthening Brand Africa for the swift recovery of the tourism sector hosted in Namibia from 14 to 16 June. The event set the tone for key strategic recommendations on national and regional Branding through the tourism sector aimed at enhancing the image of the continent and to bring African narratives to the fore. Through a series of technical workshops and the Ministerial Think Tank culminated in the adoption of the Windhoek pledge on Advocating Brand Africa by African tourism ministers, Representatives of the African Union Commission and the AU-NEPAD Development Agency.

At the same time, we continue our efforts to promote country brochures on African Gastronomy and highlight the vital role that gastronomy plays in the promotion and the visibility of destinations. In particular, the UNWTO World Forum on Gastronomy Tourism, from 31 October to 2 November in Bruges, Flanders will dedicate a special session on Africa Gastronomy.

In pursuance of supporting efforts of member states in the region on tourism statistics that can serve to better capture the potential of domestic tourism, a two-day virtual capacity-building workshop was organized on 6 and 7 July. These workshops allowed officials of ministries of tourism and national statistics organizations to better understand, measure and manage tourism statistics for tourism recovery and uncover innovative ways such as big data sources on tourism measurement.

The 64th UNWTO Commission for Africa Meeting and 2nd edition of the Global Tourism Forum for Africa, organized jointly by UNWTO and the Government of Cabo Verde, held in Sal Island, from 2 to 4 September, allowed the Ministers of Tourism to address topical issues and solutions required to support the recovery of the tourism sector. The key outcomes for a safe restart of the industry highlighted the extreme importance of the impact of COVID-19 on the tourism sector, the existing challenges faced by member states on vaccine rollouts, job losses, safety and security hurdles, air connectivity and harmonized travel protocols. Members also received an update on the international code for protection of tourists. Discussions also led to a better understanding of the benefits of green investment opportunities an area of potential that are still untapped for the sector.

Additionally, Members were nominated to vacant posts of UNWTO statutory organs ahead of the 24th UNWTO Session of the General Assembly to be held in Madrid from 30 November to 3rd December. It was an opportune occasion to launch the UNWTO publication Brand Africa, a guidebook to strengthen the competitiveness for African Tourism, a toolkit for effective brand strategy and marketing to attract new source markets and the UNWTO Declaration on the Future of Mobility and sustainable Transportation focusing on green investments and enhanced cooperation between tourism and travel providers.

Alongside the meeting, Capacity-building workshops on innovation, digital marketing and investment, were held to provide young entrepreneurs and MSMEs, practical measures for sustainable investments, through digitalization and innovation.

Our collaboration with regional organisations led to the signing of A Memorandum of Understanding with the African Airlines Association (AFRAA), signed on 21 September. This MoU aims at strengthening our partnership with the air transport sector and to coordinate the safe restart of tourism for Africa.

A wonderful way to restart travels was celebrated in our region, with the marking of the official World Tourism Day celebrations that took place in Côte d’Ivoire on 27 September. The theme Tourism for Inclusive Growth, highlighted the tourism sector’s unique ability to create more and better jobs and thereby help drive inclusive recovery and build a better future for millions of people all around the world. Expert-led sessions resulted in key recommendations for a betterment of employment opportunities of tourism in uncertain times.

Moreover, we conducted during the first semester 2021 with the officials of ministries of tourism interactive virtual meetings preparing them to be ready when international tourism moves again. We will continue this initiative with our member states to share with them UNWTO initiatives as a support towards tourism recovery.

Moving forward, UNWTO will continue to support Member States in Africa and will conduct more technical assistance on the ground as travel is slowly resuming. I truly believe that strong coordination and harmonized travel protocols couple with vaccine rollouts will help the tourism sector in the region to recover better and stronger and that partnership with local businesses and investments can boost the sector and create sustainable jobs for women, the youth and vulnerable groups.

UNWTO and Didier Drogba partner to build opportunity for African Youth

UNWTO and the Didier Drogba Foundation have teamed up to highlight the potential of African youth and ensure that both tourism and sport deliver on their potential to provide opportunities for all.

Against the backdrop of World Tourism Day 2021 – held under the theme of "Tourism for Inclusive Development" – the United Nations specialized agency signed a Memorandum of Understanding with the former Chelsea and Côte d’Ivoire footballer.

Didier Drogba is one of the most celebrated and decorated athletes of this century, and the work of the Didier Drogba Foundation is true to the goals of UNWTO.

The agreement recognizes that both sport and tourism can play a key role in advancing many of the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), including through promoting cooperation and understanding, as well as through creating frameworks for inclusive economic growth. It also recognizes the shared goals and values of both UNWTO and the Foundation.

UNWTO Secretary-General Zurab Pololikashvili said: “Didier Drogba is one of the most celebrated and decorated athletes of this century, and the work of the Didier Drogba Foundation is true to the goals of UNWTO – to provide opportunity to the women and youth of Africa and build a better future for the continent.”

Didier Drogba was appointed a UNWTO Ambassador for Responsible Tourism in October 2019. In this role, he provides a bridge between tourism and sport – both sectors with the power to bring people together and promote cultural exchange and mutual understanding.

The World Tourism Day celebrations were the occasion to highlight two other important milestones for the organization and the tourism sector. As part of UNWTO’s efforts to raise awareness about the social, economic, cultural and environmental relevance of the tourism sector, a Memorandum of Understanding was also signed with the international, multiple award-winning media company, Channels TV of Nigeria. In this regard, the new media partner will actively integrate tourism and the theme of tourism for development within its editorial commitments.

Finally, the Official closing ceremony of World Tourism Day 2021 and Gala Dinner saw the nomination of the newest UNWTO Ambassadors for responsible tourism. As we know music is an integral part of culture and a pull factor to bring people together. Against this backdrop, the Secretary General Zurab Pololikashvili welcomed the Ivorian musical group Magic System to accept their nomination as Ambassadors for responsible tourism.

The importance of unlocking the potential of investments for growing African tourism was highlighted as leaders from across the sector met virtually for the 2021 edition of INVESTOUR.

Held during the FITUR International Tourism Trade Fair, the 12th edition of the Forum for Tourism Investment and Business (INVESTOUR) united government representatives alongside experts from international organizations and from the private sector. Once again, the event was co-organized by Casa Africa, FITUR and the World Tourism Organization (UNWTO), building on the latter’s 2030 Agenda for Africa.

This year, the focus was on the importance of promoting sustainable investments to help the sector recover from the impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic. On the agenda were the role of public-private partnerships, building resilience, and promoting innovation at every step of the broad tourism value chain.

A roundtable discussion on “Revitalizing Tourism Post-COVID-19”, explored ways to identify and reach new markets and develop new tourism products. Contributing were Mouhamed Faouzou, Technical Advisor to the Minister of Tourism and Air Transport of Senegal, Dr. Alfonso Vegara, Founder and President of Fundación Metrópoli, and Alberto Virella Gomes, Ambassador-at-Large for the Africa Plan, Ministry of Foreign Affairs for Senegal. This was followed by a series of investment webinars led by UNWTO experts, with a special focus on sustainability and capacity development.

In a message to the INVESTOR delegates, Secretary-General Zurab Pololikashvili stressed the importance of government-initiated Ease of Doing Business reforms and invited delegates to join UNWTO for its 64th Commission for Africa and the 2nd UNWTO Global Tourism Investment Forum in Africa, both to be held in Cabo Verde this September.

RDAF Webinars and Capacity-Building activities to #restart tourism

Workshop on Tourism Statistics for African Member States, 6 & 7 July 2021

The tourism community and the statistical community have been challenged by assessing the impact of the pandemic. Tourism statistics and data are more important than ever to guide policy decisions in the short, medium and long terms.

In an effort to support capacity building in the area of tourism measurement, UNWTO organized an online workshop on July 6th-7th, for 12 African countries, to bring together policy makers (data users) and tourism statisticians (data producers) to uncover the main elements for successful tourism measurement.

The first session provided a unique opportunity for the tourism community to get a better understanding of tourism statistics and the Tourism Satellite Account (TSA) data and their use for policy. Given the current context, special emphasis was placed on the measurement of the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic, the measurement of domestic tourism to understand the extent to which international tourism can be compensated by domestic tourism, and the use of big data sources in tourism statistics to support a continued and more detailed monitoring.

The second session was of a more technical nature, going deeper into selected issues from a technical perspective. The aim of the session was to equip tourism statisticians with some of the necessary capacities to better measure tourism and produce high-quality tourism statistics based on the internationally agreed standards.

The sessions featured key speakers from the United Nations Economic Commission for Africa (UNECA), the United Nations Statistics Division (UNSD) and UNWTO, as well as renowned international experts on tourism statistics. In addition, with the aim of enriching cross-country learning, participants from Indonesia, Lesotho, Mauritius, Nigeria, Seychelles and Zambia shared country practices and experiences on the different topics of tourism measurement. Statistics is a key for understanding how the tourism sector adapts and evolves, being a prerequisite for more effective policy. A key conclusion of the workshop was that overcoming the challenges of tourism statistics development in the selected countries deals not only with technical expertise but also with resources, communication and political engagement. It is only through the cooperation of the policy and statistical spheres that meaningful, credible data can emerge to guide the sector forward.

Month of Tourism & African Gastronomy

On the occasion of UNWTO’s publication ‘A Tour of African Gastronomy’, UNWTO devoted the month of May to the promotion of African Gastronomy and its Chefs, which also coincided with the Africa Day celebration.

This project put to the fore one of the key priorities of the UNWTO Agenda for Africa - Tourism for Inclusive Growth, Advocating Brand Africa. As we know, the African continent offers a wide range of unique experiences, including its bursting flavors and rich array of local gastronomy. The initiative’s main objective was to promote African gastronomy and its Chefs whilst showcasing African intangible cultural heritage and talent around the world.

The activities of the African gastronomy celebration were hosted virtually during the month of May and consisted of weekly round table sessions. The discussions among gastronomy experts from both the public and private sector included chefs from the continent, international and regional organizations and explored how to increase the potential of African gastronomy at regional and global level. The celebration of Africa Day on 25th May was marked by a live cooking show by one of our guest chefs from the continent, giving prominence to the UNESCO Intangible Cultural Heritage, couscous.

During this initiative, UNWTO welcomed over 200 participants from more than 55 countries of Africa and the world. The event emphasized the importance of African gastronomy not only for tourism, but within the overall world of gastronomy.

Some of the key points emerging from the discussions included the need to raise awareness through education on the importance of gastronomy, the need for an established school or training center on the continent to support skills development of future chefs, mentoring and encouraging media to play a critical role in promoting not only the continent’s gastronomy but the Chefs that are making a difference both at the national and global level as well as a better inclusion of local gastronomy in hotels around the region. UNWTO is grateful for the level of interest that the series of webinars and the recent publication of the Tour of African Gastronomy has generated.

Further to this initiative, UNWTO is pleased to dedicate a special session to African Gastronomy in our forthcoming 6th UNWTO World Forum on Gastronomy Tourism taking place in Bruges, Belgium end of this year (31 October-2 November).

COVID-19 related Travel Restrictions for International Tourism in the Region of Africa- A Snapshot

COVID-19 related travel restrictions continue to be a widely used measure applied by destinations to limit the spread of COVID-19. While at the beginning of the pandemic, in March 2020, restrictions were observed mainly in Asia and the Pacific and Europe, with the spread of the pandemic, soon all destinations around the world had restrictions in place. In May 2020 a peak of complete border closure was observed in 75% of all destinations worldwide, bringing international tourism almost to a complete standstill (Figure 2). In the region of Africa this peak was observed one month later, when 85% of all destinations had their borders completely closed for international tourism (Figure 3). After these peaks, destinations started easing travel restrictions to progressively allow the movement of people and reactivation of economic activities, including tourism. However, the persistent serious epidemiological situation and in particular the emergence of different SARS-CoV-2 variants of concern (VOC) have slowed the trend to ease or lift travel restrictions. At the same time, as reported in the 10th Report on COVID-19 related Travel Restrictions, the tendency to take a more differentiated, evidence and risk-based approach in the implementation of travel restrictions continues. Based on the increasing understanding of the virus, non-pharmaceutical intervention, testing and contact tracing possibilities the request for showing negative COVID-19 PCR or antigen test results upon arrival, and/or quarantine measures, as well as contact details for tracing purposes has become the predominant technique worldwide, including Africa. The report also shows that destinations with complete border closure are mostly emerging economies with lower Health and Hygiene standards and Environment Performance Indicators, as well as a lower dependence on tourism. For the first time the analysis also considers the share of population, vaccinated in a destination and its potential linkage to travel restrictions. It was observed that most countries with complete border closure had a lower share of population that received at least a first dose of vaccine.

Looking into the subregions of Africa (Figure 4), significant differences are observed. In Western Africa as of 1st June 2021, 56% of all destinations had their borders completely closed, while the average in Africa amounted to 19%. The majority of destinations in Southern Africa required testing and quarantine measures from international travellers, and half of the destinations in Northern Africa had their borders partially closed for international tourism.

In particular, the ongoing vaccination progress is leading to a more differentiated approach, in which vaccinated passengers are considered separately. This particular development will further influence the easing of COVID-19 travel restrictions. However, slow vaccination rates in many parts of the world, as well as the presence of VOCs make travel restrictions still a serious challenge for tourism operations to fully recover, given the wide array of requirements across destinations and the unpredictability of further adjustments.

UNWTO has published ten Reports on COVID-19 Related Travel Restrictions – A Global Review for Tourism. These reports aim to support the tourism sector address the global health crisis of COVID-19 by providing an overview and analysis of the travel restrictions implemented by governments. The reports are updated on a regular basis and aim to support mitigation and recovery efforts of the tourism sector. + Read more.

New Report Shows value of IP to the Tourism Sector

A new report published jointly by the World Intellectual Property Organization (WIPO) and the World Tourism Organization (UNWTO) in May 2021 on the value of intellectual property in boosting tourism shows how the IP system creates a favorable ecosystem for innovation, entrepreneurship and investment in the sector.

The publication, entitled “Boosting Tourism Development through Intellectual Property” highlights good practices, and features case studies and recommendations for policymakers and other tourism stakeholders to ensure that creativity, innovation, traditions and cultural heritage in tourism are properly protected and commercialized and that the benefits are shared by all.

In a joint Foreword, UNWTO Secretary General Zurab Pololikashvili and WIPO Director General Daren Tang, predict that while the tourism sector has taken a hit during the COVID-19 pandemic, it will recover and “contribute to reigniting hard-hit economies and societies thanks to its capacity to adapt to changes and offer innovative solutions to new challenges.” “In this context, IP rights are powerful tools that can be used to boost tourism development and competitiveness. The IP system is designed to promote creativity and innovation and support efforts by individuals, businesses and other actors to differentiate themselves and their products and services in the marketplace, whether through trademarks, geographical indications, copyrights or patents,” they added.

The publication provides practical guidance for non-IP specialists on how to include IP in tourism product development – from destination branding to tourism policies. It shows how different IP rights can be leveraged to raise funds. And it showcases successful experiences and demonstrates how stakeholders around the globe are using IP rights to add value to tourism services and products, as well as to protect and promote local knowledge, traditions and cultural heritage.

Through case studies – Gambia, Madagascar, Mozambique, South Africa and Zimbabwe among them - the publication shows how geographical indications and appellations of origin, certification and collective marks and trademarks can be used to support the growth of rural tourism and provide benefits to local communities.

To leverage the full potential of the IP system, the report recommends inclusion of IP strategies in national tourism plans and tourism policy strategy for regional and local destinations. Tourism authorities are also encouraged to raise awareness among tourism and destinations stakeholders on the importance of appropriate IP knowledge and management to foster the sector’s growth in these challenging times.

New Tourism Code for the Union of the Comoros

In October, the Ministry in charge of tourism, through the National Directorate of Tourism, organized a workshop of the Tourism Code for the Union of the Comoros. This project was financed by the World Bank through the Integrated Project for the Development of Value Chains and Competitiveness (IPDC) and with the technical support of the World Tourism Organization (UNWTO).

The tourism sector is identified by the Accelerated Growth and Sustainable Development Strategy of Comoros as one of its key growth sectors. As a result, a National Strategy and a Tourism Development and Management Plan was elaborated in 2018. The validation workshop of the new Tourism Code was opened and attended by high level officials and representatives from the Ministry in charge of Tourism, the World Bank and from UNWTO, along with private sector stakeholders from the tourism sector and the international experts hired for this project.

The new legal framework, which was elaborated through an extensive consultative process both the public and private levels, will improve the existing tourism law, itself adopted in 2011, and will ensure and strengthen the quality and competitiveness of the tourism value chain of the Comoros as a destination.

The next step will be its final endorsement by the Council of Ministers and its ratification by the Parliament for its effective implementation.

Algeria-The vaccine is the solution ... on the road to tourism recovery

Since its registration of the first cases of infection by this epidemic, Algeria has clearly realized the seriousness of this health threat, and has taken proactive, urgent and preventive measures to face it and protect the health and safety of people. citizens, and was one of the first countries to take important precautionary measures such as strengthening health protection systems and adopting an appropriate quarantine system as well as developing health protocols to ensure the continuity of various economic, social and educational activities.

Mauritius looks ahead to the future of travel

The National Vaccination Campaign in Mauritius, launched in January 2021, is progressing positively and the country is now nearing herd immunity. This has been one of the key motivations behind the Government decision to ease restrictions on travel and launch, on 15 July 2021, the first phase of the reopening of borders to foreign travellers. The next phase of reopening is planned for the 1 October 2021, subject to certain preconditions being met.

While the reopening of borders brings a ray of hope to the tourism industry, operators and related businesses have also reviewed their operational strategies so as to reduce their impact on the environment. The Tourism Authority, through the Sustainable Island Mauritius (SIM) project, is continuously innovating and finding ways to support tourism stakeholders, including the small and medium enterprises (SMEs), in order to achieve the objective of making Mauritius a green destination to visit and sustainable island to live in.

With regard to the SME’s sector, the SIM Project, in collaboration with the Mauritian label Made in Moris, had organised a 5-week interactive online workshop during the months of May and June 2021, with focus on the positive impacts of local brands, circular design principles, international trends and much more.

From this came the idea of providing a facilitated pilot co-creation product development process to hotels and tour operators. Hence, SIM Project, Made in Moris and tourism operators have been touring around the island, discovering local businesses from 3D realistic décors to the manufacturing of gluten-free manioc biscuits, and engaging in the process of co-creation of new sustainable products and services.

Another 5-week online workshop was also held to empower tour operators and hotels towards a sustainable recovery of the tourism sector. All stakeholders were provided with the latest tourism insights and tools to assist them in the development of new tourism products and services to fit the new normal. Around 400 participants were registered for the 5 sessions. A self-diagnosis tool has been developed to assist operators in assessing their sustainability offerings and hence, ensure that they abide with the best practices of tourism sustainability. Ongoing webinar sessions will be organised to cater for the needs of a larger number of operators. While preparing for the full reopening of the borders, tourism stakeholders, together with the support of the Ministry of Environment, European Union, and Local Authorities, launched the nationwide clean-up campaign #Respektemoris. The initiative stems from the need to protect the environmental heritage and promote a productive dialogue with the tourism operators and the local communities, by sharing good practices in waste management and raising awareness on the consequences of improper waste disposal. SIM Project is supporting the drive for cleanliness, safety, and comfort to appeal to tourists, while at the same time working to restore the natural beauty of our coastal regions.

Zambia- COVID-19 Vaccine Rolled Out and Surveillance at Points of Entry Strengthened

The COVID-19 vaccination was rolled out in Zambia on 14 April in Lusaka. The country received the first consignment of 228,000 doses of the vaccine from the COVAX facility, a global Initiative representing a partnership between the World Health Organization, Global Alliance for Vaccines and Immunization, United Nation’s Children Fund and the Coalition for Epidemic Preparedness Innovations, working on the equitable distribution of COVID-19 vaccines.

The voluntary COVID-19 vaccination exercise in the country targeted a total of 8.4 million people above the age of 18 years. The National COVID-19 Vaccine Deployment Plan prioritized frontline health workers who are essential in sustaining the COVID-19 response. The country started rolling out the 2nd dose of the vaccine on 21st June, 2021.

In the efforts to further curb the pandemic, Zambia revised the COVID-19 guidelines to strengthen surveillance at the points of entry. These included the reviewing of negative COVID-19 certificates presented by travelers to determine the authenticity and validity. The negative tests reviewed are those issued 72 hours prior to visitors’ departure from the country of origin. Further, all passengers are required to undergo thermo-scanning and have their temperature indicated on the health declaration forms.

In addition, a mandatory 14 days self-isolation/quarantine is imposed to all visitors entering Zambia from "high risk" countries. The high-risk countries include; Argentina, Columbia, Chile, Brazil, United Arab Emirates, Kuwait, Oman, Peru, Kuwait, Maldives, Iraq, Costa Rica, Panama, Tunisia, Fiji, Paraguay, Uruguay, Mongolia, St Kitts and Nevis and Suriname. The list of countries classified as high-risk countries will be reviewed and updated on a regular basis.

The COVID-19 vaccination rolled out and the revision of the COVID-19 guidelines are in tandem with the efforts of overcoming the COVID-19 pandemic. They also boost the confidence of tourists from source markets as well as ensure that domestic tourist adhere to the COVID-19 health and hygiene protocols for a foreseeable future.

Zambia is Open

Destination Zambia has remained open despite the challenges of COVID-19 pandemic. As far back as 2020, when the pandemic was at its peak globally, the Zambian President, His Excellency Mr. Edgar Chagwa Lungu opened the tourism sector with caution and appealed to industry players to adhere to COVID-19 guidelines set by the Zambian Ministry of Health.

The Ministry of Tourism and Arts in collaboration with Zambian tour operators developed the COVID-19 Safety Protocols for implementation by the tourism sector. These were developed so as to limit and minimize the spread of COVID-19; serve as safety guidelines for tourism businesses to protect both the staff and clients; and harmonise the COVID-19 response measures for the tourism sector. Other reasons include instilling confidence among potential clients on travel safety; resuming tourism activities in Zambia; and auditing and establishing Zambia’s new carrying capacity in the provision of various tourism services.

The Zambia Tourism Agency has noted the positive and steady growth of the tourism sector after the re-opening of the industry. Domestic tourism has progressively grown, whilst international arrivals are still slow. With heightened COVID-19 vaccination roll-outs across the country, the Zambia Tourism Agency is confident the rebounding trend will gradually register positive growth.

The Opening of Kazungula Bridge

The Kazungula Bridge was officially opened by His Excellency Mr. Edgar Chagwa Lungu President of Zambia, and His Excellency Mokgweetsi E. K. Masisi President of Botswana on 10th May, 2021, at a colorful ceremony in the border town of Kazungula. The guest of Honour was His Excellency Felix Tshisekedi, President of the Democratic Republic of Congo.

The curved bridge spanning Zambia and Botswana, is a long stretch of 923 meters over the Zambezi River. The bridge has a road and rail over the Zambezi River between the countries of Zambia and Botswana. The bridge is a key regional trade and integration investment infrastructure. It is expected to enhance Southern Africa’s access to international markets, connectivity, cross border commerce and tourism. The new bridge provides a vital link between Zambia and Botswana, thereby ease travel for regional tourism between the two countries and open access to Zimbabwe.

The bridge will have ripple effects in job creation for surrounding lodges, guest houses and tour visits, given the rebounding trend of tourism especially with COVID-19 vaccination roll-outs and wearing of the masks in areas of social interaction across Zambia. Further the bridge will open avenues for improved trade and also enhance key strategic partnerships within the region.

Launch of Events Professionals Association of Zambia

The launch of the Events Professionals Association of Zambia (EPAZ) was held on 29th July, 2021 at Lusaka’s Taj Pamodzi Hotel. The event whose core objective was to represent the Event Industry in Zambia, was graced by the Permanent Secretary at the Ministry of Tourism and Arts, represented by the Director of Tourism, Mrs Lillian Bwalya. It brought together over 400 participants drawn from tourism industry to virtually attend the meeting.

EPAZ was created on 2nd October 2020 as initiative of tourism industry players. It seeks to work with individuals and businesses from the tourism sector (for local and international clients) by providing strategic direction and creating a professional environment for all. This is underpinned by Zambia’s tourism industry recovering from the effects of the COVID-19 pandemic, and lacking defined learning and career paths in tourism. EPAZ will provide competitive advantage in promoting events of the various categories of membership, among others.

Through Business Tourism comprising of Meetings, Incentive Travel, Conventions and Events commonly referred to as M.I.C.E, EPAZ will offer a safe destination with friendly, educated and competent people possessing abilities to handle every big event with resulting domino effect. Due to COVID-19 pandemic that has affected the leisure sector, EPAZ will develop products and services appropriate during this time of the COVID-19 pandemic in Zambia, taking into account the dimensions of the pandemic. Other benefits of joining the association include building confidence and credibility in unison, helping in succession planning, networking and skills acquisition, for members to progress in the 21st Century.

The creation of the association comes in the wake of the tourism industry in Zambia emerging to demonstrate its value to most destinations. This follows the halting of travel to Zambia due to the COVID-19 outbreak that resulted in the collapsing of the tourism businesses given the tourism industry’s dependence on international travelers in the past.

Seychelles International Airport announces first step to scrap paper arrival forms

Digital, contactless and eco-friendly entry on the horizon for international visitors

The Ministry of Transport, in collaboration with the Department of Immigration, Seychelles Civil Aviation Authority (SCAA) and the Department for Information and Communication Technology (DICT), has launched a digital trial at the Seychelles International Airport to support the phasing out of the paper arrival forms. The current forms, which are reviewed on arrival by Immigration Officers at the Airport, will be gradually replaced by an e-form, powered by the existing Seychelles Islands Travel Authorization platform.

The trial will run from August 2021 until new hardware is delivered later this year, when the Government plans to completely retire the paper immigration and customs forms for all international arrivals to the Seychelles International Airport. As part of the trial, a proportion of passengers from each international flight will be processed by Immigration Officers using the digital system. The majority of passengers on each flight will continue to present their paper forms on arrival until the full transition has been successfully completed.

The current Immigration database has been in operation for more than 25 years. Historic immigration data stored in the existing system will now be fully integrated with the new platform, facilitated by border security experts Travizory.

To guarantee a smooth transition between the legacy and new system and ensure that there are no gaps in the data, a phased approach to the removal of the paper forms has been put in place. To date, 3% passengers have taken part in the trial and have been successfully processed using Travizory’s technology.

This latest step towards a digital airport comes after the online Seychelles Islands Travel Authorization was introduced to support the safe reopening of borders late last year. The authorization system will be expanded to replace the manual completion of the blue paper forms on the plane ahead of arrival. As part of this phased approach, new hardware, including computer monitors and Desko scanners will be provided by Travizory to facilitate the work of the Immigration Officers. 15 new scanners are expected to be delivered by October 2021.

Once the trial is successfully completed, all passengers will be able to pre-submit their customs and immigration information via web form or mobile app for approval by Seychelles authorities before their departure from their country of origin.

Alan Renaud, Principal Secretary for Civil Aviation, said:

"Facilitating paperless entry is a target for many airports around the world, so we can be proud that our small nation has achieved such an important milestone so quickly and effectively. Visitors to Seychelles and returning residents can now pre-fill their entry forms from the comfort of their hotel room or on-the-go as part of our industry-leading electronic Travel Authorization. The beauty of our fully digital system is how simple and seamless travel to Seychelles will now be for both travelers and the Immigration and Customs Authorities who vet them on arrival."

The move to a paperless system will improve processes and more effectively retain passenger information within border authorities’ databases. Information will be digitally recorded - eliminating manual data entry errors, reducing the risk of COVID transmission with fewer interactions and improving efficiency.

Previously all international arrivals (resident or visitor) had to fill in a paper disembarkation form. The forms, used by both customs and immigration, asked for a variety of individual pieces of information, including flight number, passport information, recent travel history, health information and a customs declaration.

The paperless process will speed up customs and immigration processes and reduce queues as international arrivals will only need to show their unique traveler code, generated via the Seychelles Islands Travel Authorization system and passport to officials. Border officers who will still be able to screen passengers on the ground, can access passengers’ electronic forms by scanning their passport.
Alain Volcere, Principal Secretary for Immigration and Civil Status, said: “

We’re delighted to roll out paperless entry for international arrivals in Seychelles. Not only is this an improvement for travelers to our country but the introduction of a digital system means increased efficiency for front-line Immigration Officers. By eliminating the painstaking and time consuming manual entry of passenger data by Immigration Officers, they can dedicate more time to focus on their core responsibility of determining admissibility and securing our borders.”

As travelers grapple with increasingly complex travel rules, the introduction of a digital pre-approval process also removes some of the guesswork for visitors who will have confidence that they can enter the Seychelles before boarding. Importantly, in the wake of the pandemic, this digital process guarantees a contactless travel experience thus minimizing health risks by limiting interactions on arrival.

Sherin Francis, Principal Secretary for Tourism, said:

“Since the beginning of the pandemic, travel requirements and procedures have become lengthier and tedious for visitors. Having an online system for Travel Authorization has been instrumental for the destination in improving the visitor’s experience especially when it comes to disembarkation procedures. Through the system, we have been able to also give passengers the confidence they need to book a holiday by giving them certainty that they have met all entry requirements ahead of travel. We are now looking forward to seeing the digital system take a step towards the sustainable goals we want to achieve for our destination. Switching to a completely digital system also guarantees a swift, secure and above all contactless experience, meaning COVID secure travel when you travel to or within our islands.”

With approximately 350,000 visitors per year to the islands, the move will also be welcomed by environmental campaigners as paper forms are taken out of circulation and waste is reduced.

The Ministry also plans to remove the yellow paper forms for departure by the end of 2021.
