UNWTO Ministerial Roundtable on Tourism Resilience through Innovation and Digitalization in Asia and the Pacific
1500-1700, Male Time (GMT+5), 14 June 2022, CROSSROADS Maldives

In conjunction with
34th Joint Meeting of the UNWTO Commission for East Asia and the Pacific and the UNWTO Commission for South Asia, & UNWTO Global Summit on Community-based Tourism
As we are celebrating the 50th anniversary of Maldivian tourism, I am extremely pleased that we are hosting the UNWTO Global Summit on Community-based Tourism in the Maldives. This year, for the first time, Maldives started a home-stay tourism initiative. Guests can now stay at the homes of local Maldivians where they can enjoy authentic local cuisine, learn the culture and traditions of us Dhivehin, and most importantly contribute meaningfully to the local economy at a community level. I hope this Summit would be a platform through which tourist destinations can learn and share our experiences with one another on how to make tourism more sustainable, resilient to climate change, and beneficial for local communities. I look forward to welcoming you all to the Maldives and participating in this Summit.

As part of the celebrations of 50 years of tourism in the Maldives, we are delighted to host the UNWTO Global Summit on Community-based Tourism, in association with World Tourism Organization (UNWTO) along with two major administrative meetings of the UNWTO, in the Maldives.

The theme for this summit aligns with the government’s efforts on diversification and linking tourism and its benefits to local island communities. This Summit will focus on areas of community-based tourism, such as agro-tourism, gastronomy tourism, eco-tourism which broadens and enhances the product base for the destination as they are fast becoming significant attractions for tourists.

I look forward to welcoming you to the Maldives to attend the Global Summit on Community-based Tourism, one of the key events of the Maldives Golden Year of Tourism.

This is an important year for tourism. After the devastation caused by the pandemic, it is heartening to see light at the end of the tunnel and the return of tourists to both Maldives and destinations everywhere.

UNWTO’s statistics show that international tourist arrivals worldwide more than doubled in January 2022 compared to 2021. This is a reflection of the growing confidence of travellers and it gives us reason to be optimistic as we mark the Golden Jubilee celebrations of Maldives’ tourism development this year.

It is against the backdrop of the commemoration of these 50 years that we have joined hands with the Government of the Maldives to organize the 34th Joint Meeting of UNWTO’s two Asian Commissions here, in conjunction with the Ministerial Roundtable on Tourism Resilience through Innovation and Digitalization in Asia and the Pacific and with the Global Summit on Community-based Tourism.

After an unprecedented crisis, the time is ripe for policymakers and industry leaders to put their heads together to discuss the way forward towards a more sustainable and resilient tourism.

It is my pleasure to invite you to join UNWTO’s most important events in Asia in the Pacific in 2022, organised within the framework of Maldives’ landmark celebrations.
