Dear Affiliate Members,

I am pleased to share with you the November Edition of the Newsletter, which focuses on the latest developments achieved by the Affiliate Members Department and future events and initiatives carried out by the UNWTO, the Affiliate Members Department, and the Affiliate Members themselves. Also included is the updated calendar of events for the second half of 2022, including UNWTO events and those carried out by or with the participation of our Affiliate Members.

On November 9, we held the 57th meeting of the Board of Affiliate Members in London, within the context of the World Travel Market. As the end of 2022 approaches, the Board of Affiliate Members met to discuss next year’s roadmap and lines of action for the Membership. On this occasion, the Chair of the Board presented an update on the latest participation of the representatives of the Affiliate Members Board at the UNWTO statutory meetings, while the Affiliate Members Department presented the Summary of Affiliate Members’ Activities for the first half of 2022 and the AMD Programme of Work 2023 and beyond.

As the tourism industry is on its way to recovery, the UNWTO seeks to keep counting on the valuable inputs of the Affiliate Members. I take this opportunity to point out that the call for proposals for the Programme of Work 2023 is open until 15 November. This is an excellent opportunity for Affiliate Members to engage with the UNWTO and share the valuable contributions of the private sector. I strongly encourage you to send a proposal in the area of expertise or knowledge where your entity is best at.

Regarding the upcoming events and initiatives, I am pleased to inform you that on November 17 we have scheduled the second meeting of the Committee on Matters related to Affiliate Membership (CMAM) during which the new candidatures for the Membership will be revised, and submitted for the approval of the 117th UNWTO Executive Council, that will be taking place in Marrakesh, Morocco on 23-25 November.

The Affiliate Members Department will continue to collaborate and support the Affiliate Members’ initiatives to the best of its capabilities.

As usual, I am at your disposal and look forward to hearing any comments you might have.

Yours sincerely,
Ion Vilcu

TOURISM TRANSFORMED AT UNWTO MINISTERS’ SUMMIT

Held around the theme of ‘Rethinking Tourism’, the 16th Summit gathered Ministers and high-level delegates from 19 countries, alongside business leaders.

This consolidated platform for public and private sector leaders addresses tourism’s most pressing issues and sets the agenda for the years ahead.

Reflecting the heightened relevance of tourism for cross-cutting economic and social wellbeing, this year’s edition was the most successful to date.

Opening the event, Secretary-General Pololikashvili emphasized the unique opportunity to transform the sector. However, with UNWTO data showing that global tourism now at around 70% of pre-pandemic levels, “the window of opportunity will not stay open forever. We need to rethink tourism: as a provider of jobs, an economic pillar, and, against the backdrop of COP27, as a solution to the climate emergency”.

While the Summit promoted diversity of thought, background and experiences, a focus on tourism’s unique power as a driver of sustainability and as a promoter of peace and understanding proved a common theme. High-level participants emphasized that now is the time for the tourism sector to focus more on cooperation rather than competition.

Ministers also acknowledged UNWTO Secretary-General Pololikashvili’s call for tourism to be mainstreamed within the political agenda and for greater collaboration between ministries of tourism and those of economy, business and environment.

Building on the Organization’s status as the leading provider of global tourism intelligence, the World Travel Market will also host the launch of the new Travel Trends Report 2023, produced by UNWTO in partnership with leading broadcaster Euronews.

UNWTO AND OJIMAH PARTNER AROUND BRANDING AND INNOVATION FOR AFRICAN TOURISM

UNWTO is to work with Omijah to make positive storytelling and digitalization key drivers of tourism recovery across Africa.

Building on UNWTO Agenda for Africa – Tourism for Inclusive Growth, the new agreement will see the two parties work together around shared goals and priorities. As a multichannel platform with reach across the continent, Ojimah will advocate for ‘Brand Africa’, enhancing the image of the region on the global stage through positive stories from across the tourism sector.

The agreement will also see UNWTO and Ojimah collaborate in supporting the digital transformation of African tourism, with the aim of both enhancing the tourist experience and helping destinations become more competitive and resilient as they recover from the impacts of the pandemic.

Additionally, recognizing the sector’s potential to advance sustainable development and growth, the partnership will focus on supporting local communities, including through the creation of jobs.

Looking beyond the short-term recovery of African tourism, the Memorandum of Understanding signed by UNWTO and Ojimah also sets out plans to work with African governments to enhance connectivity across the continent. Priorities include embracing innovation to improve visa facilitation policies, above all through the expansion of e-visas, allowing for smooth and seamless travel between destinations. To advance all of these goals, the partnership will also focus on capacity building, with key stakeholders from both public and private sectors, to be supported in their shift to digital and branding initiatives.

The MoU between UNWTO and Ojimah was signed within the framework of the 65th UNWTO Regional Commission for Africa, Arusha and will remain in force until the end of 2024.

OBSERVATORIES GUIDING SHIFT TOWARDS MORE SUSTAINABLE AND RESILIENT TOURISM

Destinations around the world are reporting significant advances in sustainable tourism, with timely evidence and analytics serving as key tools for transformation as the sector’s recovery continues to get underway.

Meeting in Madrid, the World Tourism Organization’s (UNWTO) International Network of Sustainable Tourism Observatories (INSTO) welcomed insights from more than 150 experts, with a focus on key topics including the shift towards a circular economy and reducing food waste across the sector.

The global network of INSTO Observatories is pioneering and implementing, very often for the first time, catalytic activities designed to help the tourism sector implement sustainable development at the destination level.

Together, they are leading the transformation of tourism by building on the principles of participatory approaches including all stakeholders to ensure an inclusive and resilient tourism development.

UNWTO Secretary-General Zurab Pololikashvili said: “To ensure the sustainable transformation of the tourism sector, its development must be seen as a means to achieve the overall prosperity of a local community and the surrounding environment rather than a goal in itself. The Observatories are an excellent tool for guiding and accompany this change and ensure evidence-based decision-making.”

Within the framework of the meeting, the Center of Tourism Economics of the State of Sao Paolo in Brazil and the Biscay Tourism Intelligence System in Spain were officially welcomed as new members of the Network. The meeting was also an opportunity to introduce the five members who have joined since 2021: Mallorca, Barcelona, and Málaga from Spain, the Yukon from Canada, and Bogotá in Colombia.

The IGLTA Foundation has released a new report authored by Peter Jordan—one of the world’s leading specialists on LGBTQ+ travel—outlining best practices for businesses and travel companies to remain competitive in the wake of the global COVID-19 pandemic.

The report is titled “Going Further: How to Make LGBTQ+ Travel Transformational for Travelers, Communities and the Planet” and aims to provide recommendations and insights for leaders in the travel industry through extensive research and focus groups. The IGLTA Foundation commissioned the report to help ensure the travel industry continues to evolve and move forward.

“Going Further” helps explain how the LGBTQ+ travel community can work together to rebuild and promote LGBTQ+ travel through five positive action steps that businesses can take—in addition to existing efforts to support responsible travel—that benefit their destinations, host communities and visitors. The report includes data from an IGLTA consumer survey conducted last year to assess the mindset of LGBTQ+ travelers as they returned to leisure travel post-pandemic. Even before the pandemic emerged, consumers were paying increasing attention to the impact of business on their local communities, economy, and the environment. Now, data from that survey shared for the first time as part of this project shows that these issues matter more than ever to LGBTQ+ travelers, too.

Among the key findings, the survey found that:
- 2 in 3 LGBTQ+ travelers wanted to reduce the environmental footprint of their next trip.
- LGBTQ+ travelers show a strong desire to support their destination’s local LGBTQ+ community, for example by contributing to LGBTQ+ community projects (69% of respondents) and supporting LGBTQ+ owned businesses (72%).
- Nearly three quarters of respondents said that racial equality had become important or very important to them during the past year, underlining the importance for businesses to actively improve their diversity, equality, and inclusion practices.
- More than half of respondents said that improving their mental health was important to them, reflecting a greater social awareness of this issue.

The full report can be read at iglta.org/research
Tourism is a force that connects people and provides opportunities for exploring new cultures and strengthening bonds with nature. It is an important economic force for communities around the globe and can be an important factor in urban and rural development.

The balance between these positive effects and potential negative impacts on local residents, climate and infrastructure is delicate and calls for new approaches where flourishing communities and thriving natural landscapes are at the core.

Speakers at this conference will discuss and give concrete examples of how tourism can help a place or destination develop positively, on natures and local communitie's own terms. Regenerative tourism is a new approach to ensure tourism becomes a self-empowering force for good in the future.

Come and join us – let’s co-create the opportunities for a better tomorrow.

"FALLING FOR CROATIA" AUTUMN CAMPAIGN

"Falling for Croatia, or #FallingForCroatia and #BestFallBucketList is a new promotional campaign until the end of November on Facebook, Instagram, and Twitter.

It’s an ultimate autumn guide through Croatian destinations and activities. The main goals are to encourage tourist traffic post-season and maintain Croatia’s visibility on major in-bound markets - following the excellent results achieved during the high-season this past summer.

The aim is to maintain positive trends in the shoulder season. Moreover, the objective is to attract new guests and emphasize other aspects of the overall Croatian tourist offer; which particularly stands out across continental regions with their quality, originality, and sustainability," said Kristjan Staničić, Director of the Croatian National Tourist Board.

Autumn is the period when Croatia, primarily continental and inland, offers a magical experience. This campaign will cover as many products and destinations, from the interior of Istria and Gorski Kotar, through Međimurje and Hrvatsko Zagorje, and to Slavonia and Baranja, as well as the Dalmatian hinterland. At the same time, the activities that stand out are tours of national and nature parks and visits to traditional and cultural events on the continent. Or, moreover, cycling or walking along numerous marked trails, or tasting numerous eno-gastronomic delicacies.
REINVIGORATING CARPHA’S REGIONAL TOURISM AND HEALTH PROGRAM (THP) IN TOBAGO

The Regional Tourism and Health Program (THP) is designed to enhance sustainable tourism through the promotion of healthier, safer travels for foreign and local visitors to the various islands in the Caribbean.

Several of the THP tools have been airmarked for implementation during this transitionary period in Tobago, part of the twin isle Republic of Trinidad and Tobago, as the island seeks to reinvigorate and sustain the quality of their tourism product. One of these key planned initiatives focuses on the provision of adequate knowledge on the Prevention & Control of Infectious Diseases in the Hospitality Sector. This training is geared towards building awareness and capacity among stakeholders in the tourism sector as it relates to managing potential infectious disease threats and reducing risks associated with the reintroduction of tourism into the region post-pandemic. The Tobago Tourism Agency Limited benefited from said training ahead of the launch of their upcoming Carnival between October 28th to 30th, 2022.

The THP will continue to expand and enhance the utilization of the THiS and CVSS electronic surveillance systems for early warning and response to potential disease threats in hospitality businesses and cruise lines, respectively. Furthermore, with the completion of the Hospitality Health, Safety, and Environmental Sanitation (HSE) Standards, Tobago was chosen as the ideal location to officially launch and implement these documents as part of their re-energized tourism thrust. This event is scheduled for November 14th, 2022.

These tools will provide a sense of confidence and safety, not only for the hospitality sector but also for travellers, regarding their overall safety and the reduced risk of illnesses upon arrival, translating into an overall happier travel experience and enhanced reputational image. Moreover, these initiatives by the THP endeavour to enhance the brand quality and competitiveness of Tobago’s tourism product as a healthier, safer option.
FAMALICÃO, YOUR PLACE

Vila Nova de Famalicão is one of the most thriving cultural, commercial, and industrial municipalities in Portugal. The destination is developing a new experience for tourists that are already in the territory (business segment). Famalicão, as it is known internally, is the 3rd most exporting municipality in the country, and one of the main industrial economies in the north of Portugal. For this reason, a large number of business travellers arrive at the destination every day.

Turning visitors into tourists

Knowing that these visitors have free time to spare at the destination, the proposed challenge was to turn them into tourists, ensuring that their free time is used to explore tourist experiences in the municipality.

Experiences based on the existing tourist offer

Famalicão has a diversified offer of tourist activities, including a structured network of museums and cultural spaces of great value and interest. It has a gastronomic offer of high quality, with unique conditions to enjoy outdoor walks and sports activities. It has a growing tradition of wine tourism, with award-winning wines.

As to accommodation and tourist entertainment, the offer is rapidly improving, with a complete and structured program of events on offer. To add to the reasons for visiting the destination, 4 experiences were created that can be carried out during the visitors' free time:

• Famalicão AM (before lunch experiences);
• Famalicão PM (end of the day experiences);
• Famalicão Walk/Run (get to know the town on a run or walk);
• Famalicão by Bike (get to know the town by bike).

These experiences were organized into a digital brochure, offered to companies operating in the area, and made available online by the municipality. This brochure is fully interactive and contains links and contacts that can easily be updated, thus serving as a hands-on guide to support the expected growth of demand for the destination's tourism sector.
EQUATORIAL GUINEA PARTICIPATES IN THE MOST IMPORTANT TOURISM FAIRS IN ITALY

The Secretary of State for Tourism Catalina Martínez Asumu and the General Director of Grand Hotel Djibloho, Vincenzo Presti, have been from October 12 to 14, representing the Equatorial Guinean Nation, at the largest tourism fair held in Italy, the TTG Travel Experience.

This initiative is a resource where different countries and operators from all over the world converge to support and promote tourism, using means such as tour operators, and partnership for the exhibition of social, cultural, economic, sports, and active tourism elements and information.

During the meeting at the TTG fair in Rimini, the representatives of Equatorial Guinea, sent by H.E Teodoro Nguema Obiang Mangue, have scheduled, together with the different tourism companies, a tour with Italian members belonging to the tourism sector, on future dates.

Catalina Martínez Asumu has entered into conversations with the managers of Alpitour Group, Veratour, and MSC Cruises, who confirmed that they will arrive in the country in December to study and agree on collaboration with Equatorial Guinea.

Days before, from October 6 to 9, the Secretary of State and Vincenzo Presti attended the Natural Tourism and Well-being Exchange, on the island of Elba. Equatorial Guinea was a special guest at said event; thus allowing, to captivate, even more, the attention of the participants present at the act, leading them to want to know even more about the riches that the Equatorial Guinean country possesses.

For the Secretary of State for Tourism, cooperation between the two countries is eminent: "There are many synergies between Italy and Equatorial Guinea in terms of ecotourism and sustainable tourism that can make us collaborate together, and we are prepared to welcome Italian tourists and other parts of the world, with great pleasure, to show the natural beauties of Equatorial Guinea", detailed Catalina Martínez Asumu.
INTERNATIONAL THEMATIC CONFERENCE: IMPROVEMENT OF SUSTAINABLE MOBILITY, ACCESSIBILITY, AND RESPONSIBLE TRAVEL

On October 22nd, 2022, the Online International Thematic Conference: Improvement of sustainable mobility, accessibility, and responsible travel, hosted by Duy Tan University, Vietnam, with the participation of the World Tourism Organization (UNWTO) was held successfully.

Tourism and mobility are strictly connected: moving from the usual residential place for leisure or entertainment represents the essential condition of tourism.

The control of accessibility and mobility and responsible travel to and within a tourist destination is one of the most critical management tools to regulate visitor flows, reduce traffic congestion and pollution and meet tourists’ and residents' requirements.

Responsible tourism emphasizes the tourism industry’s responsibility by increasing economic benefits to local people, improving the well-being of host communities, and addressing challenges for efficient sustainable tourism while promoting positivity through sustainable mobility and accessibility.

The aim of this conference was to discuss the initiatives from the Asian students’ perspectives regarding tourism resilience during the pandemic.

After the panel sessions, the conference’s session chairs chose out 3 best teams among the 12 presentations, which were:

1. Nguyen Duc Thinh; Vo Mai Tuyet Nhi; Huynh Thi A Ly; Tran Thi Tu Nhi- Contribution of ecotourism in the sustainable development of Dak Nong province;
2. Dai Duong Pham; Jing Yin; Tran Thi Tu Nhi; Yeong-Hyeon Hwang-The Role of Tourism to Achieve the SDGs: Vietnamese Gen Z's Perspective;
