TOURISM AND SPORTS UNITED FOR SUSTAINABILITY: KEY TAKEAWAYS FROM THE 2ND WORLD SPORTS TOURISM CONGRESS

The UNWTO and the Government of the Republic of Croatia, through its Ministry of Tourism and Sport, and the Affiliate Member Croatian National Tourist Board hosted the 2nd World Sports Tourism Congress on 26-27 April 2023.

Held under the theme "Tourism & Sports United for Sustainability", the Congress welcomed worldwide experts in the field of sports tourism to discuss the potential and benefits of this growing field of tourism.

Through a series of panels, speakers drew up insights and conclusions that generated innovative ideas for destinations and sports events hosts.

Key issues such as Sports Tourism’s economic impact, its contribution to the SDGs, key aspects to promote destinations through hosting sports events, and the connection between sports tourism and health, among others, have been addressed. The Congress counted on the participation of more than 300 participants from over 25 countries.

The UNWTO is currently working on collecting the main conclusions and best practices that will be soon featured and published in a dedicated report on sports tourism.

The UNWTO will keep supporting the effort toward the sustainable development of the growing field of sports tourism and, on this occasion, it was announced that the third edition of the congress is to be held in 2025.

The Affiliate Member ASICOTUR hosted the I Workshop on International Cooperation/ I Taller de Cooperación de Asicotur.

The event, of hybrid format, took place on April 25 and 26 at the Hotel OCA Puerta del Camino, in the city of Santiago de Compostela, Spain.

This workshop has been included in the Affiliate Members Programme of Work 2023 and counted with the official participation of the UNWTO. Furthermore, the event was supported by the Xunta de Galicia and the National Institute for Tourism Promotion of Argentina, which took part in the event along with other governmental, and educational entities, and specialized press.

The objective of this meeting was to offer an instance of knowledge transfer with a strict focus on management, cooperation, and tourism project presentations, aiming at responding to the current needs of professionals who are in continuous search of appropriate lines of assistance and sources of financing.

It also intended to promote public-private participation, generating spaces for interaction among the different actors participating both virtually and in person.

On the first day, after the inauguration, Dmitry Ilin, representative of the UNWTO Affiliate Members Department delivered a speech highlighting the importance of public-private cooperation and confirmed UNWTO's support of initiatives related to international cooperation for tourism development, followed by the interventions from the event partners: Fundación Expourense, the Chamber of Commerce of Angra do Heroísmo, the Secretary of Tourism of the State of Querétaro (Mexico), the Secretary of Tourism of the State of Nuevo León (Mexico) and the Government of the Province of Misiones (Argentina), who discussed briefly the sustainable practices they carried out in their tourist destinations.

On the second day, the social program included making a part of the Camino de Santiago and, in the afternoon, began the round of conferences.

The I Taller de Cooperación de Asicotur counted more than 70 attendees in the room each day, +180 views of the streaming channel, and entities from 26 countries connected by Zoom.

25 UNWTO GENERAL ASSEMBLY

SAMARKAND, UZBEKISTAN, 16-20 OCTOBER 2023
2ND WORLD SPORTS TOURISM CONGRESS: TOURISM AND SPORTS UNITED FOR SUSTAINABILITY

The 2nd edition of the World Sports Tourism Congress (WSTC), organized by UNWTO, Government of Croatia through its Ministry of Tourism and Sport, and the Affiliate Member Croatian National Tourist Board, brought together experts and leaders from across the sports and tourism sectors, alongside representatives of destinations and businesses.

Held under the theme “Tourism and Sports United for Sustainability”, the Congress focused on key issues such as sports tourism's economic impact and its contribution to the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs).

UNWTO Secretary-General Zurab Pololikashvili says: “Sports Tourism plays a key role in enhancing economic growth and social development in many destinations. It creates jobs and supports businesses in cities and rural communities alike. In order to maximize its potential, public and private sector actors must collaborate, and that's where UNWTO steps in.”

Ms. Nikolina Brnjac, Minister of Tourism and Sport of Croatia said: “I am very proud of having hosted this Congress in Croatia. We enjoyed hearing many excellent international and Croatian speakers, as well as presenting the many opportunities of sustainable development of sports tourism in Croatia. Croatian government has secured generous funds for building active tourism infrastructure, in line with our goal of making Croatia a globally competitive sports tourism destination.”

Alongside assessing the impacts of sports tourism, the Congress also explored the potential benefits of the growing sector, including its links to health and wellbeing, and its importance for promoting destinations to bigger and more diverse audiences. In Zadar, leaders from both established and emerging sports tourism destinations shared their insights and best practices to produce recommendations for growing the sector in size and influence.

While mountain tourism has become an increasingly relevant motivation for travel, data on its size and impact remains scarce, a new report from the UN agencies the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations (FAO), the World Tourism Organization (UNWTO), and the Mountain Partnership (MP) makes clear.

Mountain tourism represents between 9 and 16% of international tourist arrivals worldwide, translating into 195 to 375 million tourists in 2019 alone. However, the scarcity of domestic mountain tourism-related data makes it difficult or even impossible to assess the economic, social, and environmental impacts of this important segment. This new report aims to address this data gap.

Mountains are home to around 1.1 billion people, some of them among the poorest and most isolated in the world. At the same time, mountains have long drawn tourists interested in nature and open-air destinations and outdoor activities like walking, climbing, and winter sports. They also attract visitors with their rich biodiversity and vibrant local cultures.

“With the right data, we can better control the dispersal of visitor flows, support adequate planning, improve knowledge on visitor patterns, build sustainable products in line with consumer needs, and create suitable policies that will foster sustainable development and make sure tourism activities benefit local communities,” FAO Director-General QU Dongyu and UNWTO Secretary-General Zurab Pololikashvili stated.

The study, which was based on research carried out in 46 countries, shows that generating economic benefits, creating opportunities for local communities, and developing sustainable products are the main motivations for mountain tourism development. The sustainable development of mountain tourism was also identified as a means to help to spread tourism flows, tackle seasonality and complement existing tourist offerings.

The publication coincides with the end of the International Year of Sustainable Mountain Development 2022.

DESTINATION 2030: UNWTO AND GLOBAL TOURISM ECONOMIC FORUM PLOT STRONGER COLLABORATION

UNWTO and the Global Tourism Economic Forum (GTEF) have outlined their plans for stronger and closer collaboration.

Since the first Forum was held in 2012, the two organizations have partnered around promoting closer links between governments and tourism’s private sector. Building on this success, UNWTO and GTEF have announced plans for a revamped and enhanced annual Forum to coincide with the 10th anniversary of the event in Macau, China (21 September). The location of subsequent Forums will then alternate between Macau and a different host country, to be jointly selected by UNWTO and GTEF.

Announcing the plans in Lisbon, UNWTO Secretary-General Zurab Pololikashvili said: “UNWTO is proud to work with the Global Tourism Economic Forum to unite governments and private sector leaders and address the biggest challenges and opportunities facing our sector today. We look forward to building on our successful partnership in 2023 and beyond.”

Pansy Ho, Vice Chairman and Secretary-General, GTEF, said: “In response to China’s policies in supporting enterprises to ‘go global’, we will stage the GTEF, an international platform, overseas every other year. Looking forward to the future, we believe that mainland China, Macao, and even the world can benefit from the event.”

The 10th edition of GTEF will be held around the theme of “Destination 2030: Unlocking Tourism for Business and Development”.

It will bring together Governments as well as leaders from across the public and private sectors to further establish the Forum as the premier annual event for public-private partnerships and tourism for business growth and development.

Also in Lisbon, UNWTO signed a Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) with the Global Tourism Economy Research Centre (GTERC), the coordinator of GTEF, to work together to identify areas of future cooperation. Joining UNWTO Secretary-General Pololikashvili for the announcement were Ho Iat Seng, Chief Executive of Macao SAR; Zhao Bentang, Ambassador of the People’s Republic of China to the Portuguese Republic, and Nuno Fazenda, Secretary of State for Tourism, Trade and Services, Portugal.

UNWTO OPENS CALLS FOR BEST TOURISM VILLAGES 2023

UNWTO has opened applications for the third edition of its Best Tourism Villages (BTV) initiative.

Best Tourism Villages by UNWTO was launched in 2021 as part of the Organization’s work to make tourism a driver of rural development and wellbeing. To date, over 70 villages from almost 40 countries have been recognized as Best Tourism Villages. A further 40 have been selected to participate in the Upgrade Programme where they benefit from expert mentorship and networking opportunities.

UNWTO’s Members States can present up to eight villages through their National Tourism Administrations (NTAs). Applications will close on 23 June 2023 and the winners announced towards the end of the year. As with previous editions, the initiative has three components:

1. BTV recognizes outstanding examples of rural tourism destinations with cultural and natural assets, that preserve and promote rural and community-based values, products and lifestyle and have a clear commitment to innovation and sustainability in all its aspects;

2. BTV Upgrade Programme benefits a number of villages among those that do not fully meet the criteria to obtain the recognition.

3. BTV Network provides a space for exchanging experiences and good practices and opportunities

The villages in the Upgrade Programme will also join the Best Tourism Villages Network, which today numbers over 100 members in five world regions. Since its inception the BTV Network had organized a series of training sessions and masterclasses, allowing hundreds of participants to benefit from expert guidance and feedback from sector leaders.

UNWTO HIGHLIGHTS

UNWTO STRENGTHENS COOPERATION AROUND TOURISM INVESTMENTS

UNWTO has further advanced its focus on investments in a more resilient and sustainable tourism by strengthening its cooperation with both the international community and with the private sector.

In this context, UNWTO has joined the World Investment for Development Alliance (WIDA). As part of the Alliance, UNWTO will work to enhance both the level and effectiveness of investment in the sector with the aim of supporting and accelerating the implementation of the Agenda 2030 and its Sustainable Development Goals.

UNWTO Secretary-General Zurab Pololikashvili says: “Investment is all too often the missing ingredient for turning our shared plans for a more sustainable, inclusive and resilient tourism sector into reality. UNWTO is proud to join the World Investment for Development Alliance and we look forward to working together to re-think and transform investments into tourism.”

WIDA Chair James Zhan adds: “WIDA fully recognizes that UNWTO has been playing a leading role in promoting investment in tourism for sustainable development and inclusive growth. It believes that UNWTO shares the same values as WIDA and can make a significant contribution to our common causes.”

UNWTO data shows that, as a result of the pandemic, levels of investment into tourism dropped dramatically.

“For this reason, I am happy UNWTO has confirmed our new agreement with the Annual Investment Meeting (AIM),” Mr Pololikashvili says. “We consider this collaboration as mutually beneficial, as we recognize the significant contributions that can be made by the private sector to our organization’s strategic objectives.”

In line with the two Organizations’ commitment to cooperate in the implementation of the Memorandum of Understanding, UNWTO will spearhead the “Tourism Investment Segment”, an official side event of the upcoming Annual Investment Meeting, to be held on 8-10 May in Abu Dhabi, United Arab Emirates.

THE TOURIST POTENTIAL OF BORDER REGIONS IN BRAZIL

The expansion of tourism in border regions and the logistical challenges of its activity are some of the topics addressed by the Working Group (WG) on Border Tourism of the National Confederation of Commerce of Goods, Services and Tourism (CNC). Promoted by the Business Council of Tourism and Hospitality (Cetur).

The meetings bring together representatives of the Brazilian border states of Amazonas, Acre, Roraima, Rondônia, Amapá, Pará, Mato Grosso, Mato Grosso do Sul, Santa Catarina, Paraná and Rio Grande Sul and aim to support integrated actions that can leverage the border tourism. Every year, the group develops a work plan and acts to minimize the bottlenecks and promote the development of border regions.

The actions for 2023 involve the feasibility of a specific discussion space for border tourism with the Ministry of Tourism, the mapping of bilateral agreements and the monitoring of information on the importance of the release of casinos in Brazilian territory and also highlights the importance of expanding free shops in border regions, drawing attention to the need for planning, government incentive and investment to make trade attractive and boost tourism.

The logistical challenges of regional aviation that hinder tourism in the Brazilian border regions, the prices of air transport tickets, especially to places of difficult access or with limited transportation options, were the main concerns presented by the states of the North region.
IRANIAN TOURISM RALLY JOINS NOWRUZ CELEBRATIONS ALONG THE SILK ROAD

One of the commonalities shared between Iran and its neighboring countries is the celebration of Nowruz (New Day), the Farsi name of the Persian New Year which takes place on the spring equinox and equates to March 21 of the Gregorian calendar.

With the worst of COVID pandemic now hopefully past, to celebrate this year Nowruz, the Touring and Automobile Club of Iran (TACI), with a message of friendship and prosperity, has organized a camping and caravanning tourism rally encompassing the neighboring countries Turkmenistan, Uzbekistan and Tajikistan all of whom not only share in the celebration of Nowruz, but are also countries of the fabled Silk Road.

A total of twenty-eight RV’s and towed caravans have partaken in this event and departed Iran on the 23rd of March. The start line of the rally was Iran’s Bajgiran border crossing with Turkmenistan and was attended by not only local dignitaries and the media, but enthusiasts as well. After crossing Turkmenistan, the group has entered into Uzbekistan and will then cross into Tajikistan. The group will then return via the same route with an expected total time frame of four weeks.

The Touring and Automobile Club of Iran (TACI) is an active member of the Fédération Internationale de l’Automobile (FIA), and celebration of NowRuz with TACI’s regional FIA counterparts and neighbors will not only serve as a foundation for more events of this nature, but will also be a building block for greater regional cooperation with a specific emphasis on the promotion of the FIA’s mobility objectives, with particular emphasis on safe driving.

IPDT has been working on a new model for assessing the success of tourist destinations and recently published a new tool for this end: the Tourism Success Index of Portuguese municipalities. The index includes social and environmental indicators, besides traditional economics and financial metrics.

The Tourism Success Index aims to contribute to a more competitive tourism sector, by stimulating the quality of the offer and so meet the demands of present and future tourist profiles. The awareness of local communities for the adoption of more responsible practices, while having sustainability as the new metric for evaluating the success of tourist destinations, is the central objective of the Index.

To analyze the destinations' current situation, 17 indicators were selected, covering environmental, social, economic, and cultural areas. The data used for this analysis was that of the national institute of statistics (INE), PORDATA database, and key official websites.

Energy and water consumption, greenhouse gas emissions, crime rate, gender equality, tourism intensity, and density, seasonality rate, GVA of accommodation and restaurants, and destination certification, are some of the indicators considered in the index.

Based on this methodology, the 308 Portuguese municipalities were analyzed, resulting in the following top 5 of the most successful tourist destinations in Portugal: Melgaço, Ponta do Sol, Manteigas, Sardoal, and Mondim de Basto. Complete ranking is available HERE.

This evaluation model should be seen as a stimulus for tourist destinations to embrace actions towards a more sustainable future, whereby tourism is highly responsible for the well-being and happiness of local communities and tourists.
VisitScotland, the national tourism organisation, is delighted to invite you to an in-person event at Scotland House Brussels on May 16, 2023. It will focus on the activity being delivered to support Scotland’s tourism industry on the road to Net Zero.

Decarbonising the tourism sector is a challenge many destinations now face and Scotland has committed to ambitious targets to reach Net Zero by 2045.

Chairman of VisitScotland, Lord Thurso, will share his perspective on the opportunities – and challenges – ahead for tourism. We will also be joined by VisitScotland’s Senior Responsible Tourism Manager, Lyn Donnelly, who will highlight the actions being taken in Scotland and ask:

How do we support tourism businesses and industry to take climate action? How do we collaborate with, and help enable, destination-level stakeholders? And what are the next steps that can make a difference on the journey to Net Zero?

Collaboration with EU colleagues will also be discussed in light of the shared challenges for more sustainable tourism. Such exchange will be vital as we work to ensure that tourism plays a role in tackling the climate emergency.

Registration will take place from 17:30, with the event beginning at 18:00. The presentation will include a Q&A and will be followed by a reception showcasing Scottish food and drink.

If you would like to attend this event, please contact lee.mcronald@visitscotland.com by May 11.

EXECUTIVE DEVELOPMENT PROGRAMME ON ESG IN HOSPITALITY AND TOURISM HELD AT SHTM

Organised by the SHTM and supported by Hotel ICON and Hospitality Sales & Marketing Association International (HSMAI) Asia Pacific, the Executive Development Programme on ESG in Hospitality and Tourism was successfully held in March 2023, attracting a host of industry practitioners.

The programme offered three modules, each focused on one aspect of ESG. Together, they provided a complete picture of ESG concepts in the industry.

The first module, "Caring for the Environment", was delivered by Dr Deniz Kucukusta, SHTM Associate Professor, who covered the principles and concepts in environmental sustainability and illustrated how the industry was switching to renewable energy with the objective of a carbon-neutral future. Using examples of good practices, Dr Kucukusta also explained how the industry is dealing with waste, encouraging healthy lifestyles, and improving air quality.

In the second module, Dr Sebastian Filep, SHTM Assistant Dean, focused on "Creating a Positive Impact on Society". Dr Filep covered the key concepts of this important topic, such as corporate social responsibility, positive organisational scholarship and the latest trends in supporting the well-being of tourism and hospitality stakeholders. Dr Filep also illustrated how positive relationships with the community contribute to the success of a business.

The programme ended with a third module, "Upholding Good Governance", which was presented by Dr Michael Lin, SHTM Assistant Professor. Dr Lin covered the handling of global and local issues in governance, such as anti-corruption, data security, and risk management. Dr Lin also explored with participants the oversight of ESG and the need to keep society informed of how the industry was faring in ESG.

The School is very proud to have organised this important programme in collaboration with Hotel ICON, its teaching and research hotel, and HSMAI Asia Pacific. The programme enabled participants to articulate ESG concepts and relate them to the hospitality and tourism businesses they work for.
