COOPERATION WITH THE UNITED NATIONS SYSTEM

(b) Acceptance of the Convention on the Privileges and Immunities of the Specialized Agencies

Addendum 1

Note by the Legal Adviser

1. The process of the conversion of the WTO into a specialized agency of the United Nations was completed through the formal ratification of the agreement, approved by the Economic and Social Council of the United Nations on 10 July 2003, by the General Assembly of the WTO (resolution 453 of 24 October 2003) and by that of the United Nations (resolution 58/232 of 23 December 2003), respectively. Consequently, the question of the WTO's acceptance of the Convention on the Privileges and Immunities of the Specialized Agencies of 21 November 1947 arises.
2. As stated in its preamble, this Convention, whose text is attached as an annex to the present note, is aimed at "the unification as far as possible of the privileges and immunities enjoyed by the United Nations and by the various specialized agencies". It regulates essential matters relative to the insertion in international society of the organizations linked to the United Nations by an agreement in accordance with the provisions of Articles 57 and 63 of the Charter: their juridical personality, the status of their property and assets, the facilities in respect of their communications, the privileges and immunities of the representatives of their Members and officials, and the laissezpasser they are entitled to use. Furthermore, the Convention contains clauses relative to abuses of privilege, its entry into force and its modes of application to each agency concerned, and to the settlement of disputes.
3. Acceptance of the Convention by the specialized agencies is not an obligation, and, furthermore, neither the General Assembly, nor the Economic and Social Council, nor the Office of the Legal Adviser of the United Nations made it a condition for the transformation of the WTO into a specialized agency. The fact remains, however, that despite not being legally indispensable, such formality has been carried out by all the specialized agencies of the United Nations system, including the last ones to acquire such status (UNIDO and IFAD). Acceptance of the Convention of 1947 seems to be essential, at least for the following reasons:

- it would solidify the WTO's anchorage in the system;
- it would allow the Organization to benefit from a coherent body of rules, which are well established and proven;
- it would usefully complement the provisions of the Statutes, which, although they state that the Organization has legal personality (Article 31) and enjoys in the territories of its Member States the privileges and immunities required for the exercise of its functions (Article 32), remain extremely lacking in this respect.

4. I would add that acceptance of the Convention would not affect the system of privileges and immunities provided for in the Convention of 10 November 1975 between Spain and the Organization, or the Supplemental Agreement of 19 May 1977, or the Special Agreement on the Headquarters Building of WTO:

- Article 3 of the 1975 Convention refers to all the immunities and privileges normally accorded to international organizations of a universal character, of which the 1947 Convention constitutes the most authoritative expression (it currently has 107 signatory States);
- Spain acceded to the Convention on the Privileges and Immunities of the Specialized Agencies on 26 September 1974, and may, if it so wishes, refrain from accepting the annex (see below, par. 12) relative to the WTO, thus ensuring the continuity of the Headquarters Agreement with no possibility of any compatibility problems ${ }^{1}$; incidentally, in accordance with the principle that the provisions of a special agreement takes precedence over those of a treaty of a general nature (lex specialis priori derogat), the first sentence of Section 39 of the Convention stipulates:
"The provisions of this Convention shall in no way limit or prejudice the privileges and immunities which have been, or may hereafter be, accorded by any State to any specialized agency by reason of the location in the territory of that State of its headquarters or regional offices";

Furthermore, certain States have expressly specified this upon their accession to the Convention) for example, the interpretive declaration annexed by France to its instrument of accession of 2 August 2000); and,

- on any view, there does not appear to be any incompatibility among the relevant instruments, even if the provisions of the 1947 Convention are often more precise and detailed than those of the Headquarters Agreement (although the opposite may sometimes be true: cf. the provisions relative to "Customs").

[^0]5. In principle, Section 35 of the Convention stipulates that " the Secretary-General of the United Nations shall transmit to the agency a draft annex recommended by the Economic and Social Council" As of this date, no such draft has been drawn up by the Economic and Social Council of the United Nations. However, it is my opinion that the WTO Executive Council would be well advised to:

- on the one hand, adopt a position regarding whether or not it would be advisable for the WTO to accept the Convention;
- and on the other hand, suggest the specific points that could be included in the annex in order to adapt the Convention, if necessary, to the specific characteristics of the Organization.

6. Section 33 of the Convention stipulates that the "standard clauses" of the Convention (that is, the provisions of Articles 1 to 9 ) may be modified if need be. According to Section 40:
"It is understood that the standard clauses, as modified by the final text of an annex sent by a specialized agency to the Secretary-General of the United Nations under section 36 (or any revised annex sent under section 38), will be consistent with the provisions of the constitutional instrument then in force of the agency in question, and that if any amendment to that instrument is necessary for the purpose of making the constitutional instrument so consistent, such amendment will have been brought into force in accordance with the constitutional procedure of that agency before the final (or revised) annex is transmitted. The Convention shall not itself operate so as to abrogate, or derogate from, any provisions of the constitutional instrument of any specialized agency or any rights or obligations which the agency may otherwise have, acquire, or assume."

I consider that no provision of the Convention is incompatible with the provisions of the Statutes, and that there is no need to modify the latter.
7. On the other hand, it would no doubt be useful to adapt certain standard clauses to the specific needs of the Organization, as has been done in the case of all the other specialized agencies. In an annex to the present note, I indicate the points to which, prima facie, more detailed treatment can be given in the draft annex, in my opinion.
8. The text finally approved by the Executive Council could be transmitted by the Legal Adviser of the WTO to his counterpart at the United Nations for submission to the Economic and Social Council and its approval by the latter as a recommended annex (Section 35, mentioned in par. 5 above). It is only after this can it be formally approved by the WTO in accordance with its constitutional procedure.
9. It has been pointed out to me that Annexes $X V, X V I$ and $X V I I$ - respectively concerning the last three specialized agencies to have accepted the Convention, WIPO, IFAD and UNIDO - were approved by non-plenary organs of these organizations. This does not seem possible in the WTO because, according to Article 12(I) of the Statutes, it is for the General Assembly to "approve ... the conclusion of agreements with governments and international organizations". Of course, the Assembly may delegate such powers, but it did not do so at its last session. It seems more expeditious for it to directly approve the annex relative to the WTO at its next session, that is, if the said annex is ready for approval. If it is not, it would no doubt be appropriate for it to delegate power in this respect to the Executive Council.
10. Once the annex is approved, it shall be transmitted to the Secretary-General of the United Nations and shall thereupon "replace the draft referred to in section 35 " (section 36). According to section 37 :
"The present Convention becomes applicable to each specialized agency when it has transmitted to the Secretary-General of the United Nations the final text of the relevant annex and has informed him that it accepts the standard clauses, as modified by this annex, and undertakes to give effect to sections $8,18,22,23,24$, $31,32,42$ and 45 (subject to any modification of section 32 which may be found necessary in order to make the final text of the annex consonant with the constitutional instrument of the agency) and any provisions of the annex placing obligations on the agency. The Secretary-General shall communicate to all Members of the United Nations and to other States members of the specialized agencies certified copies of all annexes transmitted to him under this section and of revised annexes transmitted under section 38."
11. It is useful to note that, if such a need is felt in the future, the WTO could modify the annex relative to it, in accordance with section 38 of the Convention.
12. Once the annex receives final approval, each Member State of the WTO may notify the Secretary-General of the United Nations of its approval of the annex, thus undertaking to apply the Convention (and the annex) in its relations with the Organization (section 43 of the Convention).
