These roots give Basque gastronomy an identity of its own, recognised and admired throughout the world. Capable of evolving with the passing of time. Our gastronomy has many layers. And each one is a free expanse in which to create, surprise, experiment and collaborate.
The Charter of values of Euskadi Gastronomika is another contribution to all these layers that make up our gastronomic culture. A set of principles that aim to align a vision and a philosophy of all the agents that form part of this network.

1. We have delectable stories to tell
2. Our most valued recipe: collaboration
3. Welcome and Bon appétit
4. Conversing with our customers
5. With pleasure
6. Protecting our land, our seas and our animals
7. For inclusive and accessible tourism, Onwards!
8. Code of ethics of Basque tourism
CODE OF ETHICS OF BASQUE TOURISM

Business enterprises and professionals incorporate responsibility and sustainability into their daily work with respect and understanding.

The establishments and professionals adopt the principles of the Basque Tourism Code of Ethics, committing themselves to its values.
Protecting our land, our seas and our animals

Because they provide the raw material to create gastronomic experiences and quality products.

Protecting and conserving our natural environment.

The circular economy at the heart of tourist and gastronomic services: a commitment to seasonal products.

More than tourist services, a commitment to the local development of the region.

For such a small country, the excellence of many Basque restaurants never ceases to surprise.

Restaurants that, season after season, receive the recognition of the most prestigious food critics in the world.

The presence of several of these among the 50 best restaurants in the world, the thirty something Michelin stars and more than 60 establishments recognised with approximately one hundred Repsol Guide Suns, is proof of this.
